

Children's National Medical Center
The Division of Trauma and Burn
Burn Education Module - Pretest

Questions: "Prevalence and Correlates of Posttraumatic Stress in Parents of Young Children Postburn"

1. The relationship between cause of the burn injury and parent adjustment was found to be more significant than the variables of severity and size. Which cause was found to be related to the highest levels of posttraumatic stress?

- ☐ a. friction
- ☐ b. scald
- ☐ c. contact

2. Age of the child at the time of burn was found to be related to parental PTSS. Which other influences were found to be related to PTSS symptomology. Circle all correct answers

- ☐ a. History of mental illness
- ☐ b. Family stress prior to incident
- ☐ c. Presence of parent at time of injury

3. Some of the limitations of this study include information about child and parent posttraumatic stress reported by parental report and the limited information about the family mental health history.

- ☐ a. True
- ☐ b. False